

A7-68 Cirrus Moth: crashed at Point Cook, Flying Officer Peter McDonough killed, Air Cadet John Costello with minor injuries, Thursday 24 November 1938

AIR FORCE INSTRUCTOR KILLED IN CRASH.—Wreckage of the Royal Australian Air Force Moth plane which crashed from a height of 1,000ft. into a wheat field near Point Cook yesterday. Flying-Officer Peter McDonough (wearing cap) was killed. Air Cadet John Costello had a remarkable escape from death. He suffered only minor injuries.